

California Wildlife

California has many different kinds of habitats for all the animals that live there. A habitat is where the animal finds their food, water, and shelter. A habitat can be a dark forest, a dry desert, or an ocean coast. It could also be in the middle of a city!

Imagine you are a squirrel living in a forest habitat.

Draw in the things you would need to survive.

(Don't forget your favorite food, a nest to sleep in, and your friends!)
