

Banana Slug

Banana Slugs might look like yellow bananas but they are special creatures that keep the forests healthy! Look for them on the forest floor, munching on the fallen leaves and berries. You might even see their sticky slime they use to move over the rough ground.

Gray Squirrel

The Gray Squirrel is a small mammal that makes its home up in the trees. They build nests up in the trees called dreys. Watch the Gray Squirrel leap from branch to branch, using its tail for balance!

Raccoon

Raccoons are amazing swimmers and climbers. They can even climb down a tree head first! They are omnivores so they eat both plants and meat. One of their favorite foods from the forest are the crayfish that live in the streams!
