WildCare is the premier center for wildlife medicine and environmental education in Northern California today.

SERVING THE BAY AREA AND BEYOND

Centrally located in downtown San Rafael, in Marin County, WildCare supports people everywhere to live well with wildlife, through a full cycle of programs including a wildlife hospital providing medical aid for ill, injured, and orphaned wild animals, nature education programs, wildlife advocacy and information resources.

EMERGENCY CARE FOR WILDLIFE

WILDLIFE HOSPITAL

WildCare's open-admission Wildlife Hospital at Albert Park in San Rafael is our region's first responder site for ill, injured, and orphaned wild animals. Our Wildlife Hospital provides emergency and ongoing medical care to 3,000 - 4,000 animals from over 200 distinct species every year. In the decades we have been caring for wildlife, we have given more than 130,000 wild animals impacted from human interaction a second chance at life.

INSTILLING A LOVE OF NATURE IN PEOPLE OF ALL AGES

WILDLIFE-CENTERED ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION PROGRAMS

WildCare's Terwilliger Nature Education Programs provide school and youth programs, camps, and family nature outings. Each year, these highly interactive experiences connect over 13,000 children and adults with nature through the experiential environmental education practices created by Elizabeth Terwilliger, Marin County's beloved "Mrs. T." We make our education programs available to children and families from all backgrounds through our scholarship program, free family nature outings, and bilingual programming (Spanish/English).

SUSTAINABLE, HUMANE ANSWERS & SOLUTIONS

PUBLIC HELP & ADVICE

Our Living with Wildlife Hotline (415.456.7283) provides advice to over 12,000 callers each year, helping people navigate the human-wildlife interface humanely.

A VOICE FOR WILDLIFE

ADVOCACY

WildCare takes a stand on legislative advocacy issues affecting wild animals and the environment. We also speak out on behalf of wildlife through our social media, website, newsletter magazine, and email alerts which together reach more than 300,000 subscribers.
